REBEL ASKS FOR MORE TIME

Indefinite Recess of the Conference Is Decided Upon and It Is Possible
That the Balance of Its Labors Will Be Carried on by Mail and Telegraph.

+ Niagara Falls, Ont., July 1.—It was learned that the Huerta delegates regarded Carranza's latest note as satisfactory and indicating a desire on the part of the Constitutionalists to enter into informal conferences. The American delegates likewise regarded the communication as favorable.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 1.—An indefinite recess of mediation was decided upon by Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil and Ministers Suarez and Naon of Chile and Argentina, respectively.

This action followed the receipt of a note from General Carranza expressing an inclination to participate in informal conferences with Huerta delegates for the solution of Mexico's internal problems, but asking for more time in which to consult his subordinate generals.

The Constitutionalist chief declared that he wished to get full authority from the signers of the plan of the Guadalupe, the platform of the Constitutionalist movement, so that the delegates might be clothed with plenary powers. He gave no inkling as to the length of time such consultation might require.

Conference Has Not Adjourned.

The mediators explained that mediation had not adjourned, but that perhaps the last formal meeting had been held.

Communication hereafter may be carried on by telegraph from the respective homes of the mediators and delegates. Ambassador Da Gama pointed out that the mediation of a boundary dispute between Ecuador and Peru in which the United States and Brazil had tendered their good offices in 1910 was still in progress.

A mediation board, he explained, is not like an international conference with a definite time for meeting and adjourning and a fixed program. Mediation chiefly offers advice to parties at conflict and devises a means for the composition of international delegates.

Chief Work Has Been Done.

The mediators consider that their chief work has been done. They have drawn up a series of protocols setting forth the conditions under which the United States will recognize a new government.

When a satisfactory government is established American forces will be withdrawn and both international and national problems solved.

Originally the three diplomats tendered their good offices to avert war. This, they think, has been accomplished. In the acceptance by the United States of their tender of good offices hope was expressed by Secretary Bryan that the "several elements" in Mexico might be brought together and the country pacified. The three envoys think that in devising the plan for informal conferences between the two factions their own task is ended and that the responsibility for the completion of the peace program rests on the Mexicans themselves.

AUSTRIAN EMPEROR BRAVE

Francis Joseph Bears Up Well Under Bereavement.

Vienna, July 1.—Owing to the difficulty of finding accommodations and a desire to spare Emperor Francis Joseph the fatigue of entertaining foreign sovereigns the German emperor will be the only foreign monarch to attend the funeral of the late Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenburg, whose bodies are now on the way to Vienna from Sarajevo.

The exception was made in Emperor William's favor because of his close personal friendship for the dead archduke.

Emperor Francis Joseph continues to bear up bravely under his bereavement.

TRAIL RALLY IS POSTPONED

Wet Roads Cause Abandonment of Montana Meeting July 8.

Livingston, Mont., July 1.—Dr. S. F. Way, president of the Montana division of the Twin Cities, Aberdeen and Yellowstone Park Trail association, has announced a postponement of the convention of the association scheduled for July 8 and 9 at Hunters Hot Springs, Mont., because of the poor condition of the roads due to recent rains. It is believed the meeting will not be postponed for more than a month.

THREE PERSONS

Between Twin Cities.

DAMAGE PLACED AT $83,000

Fire Originating in Lumber Shed Consumes That Building and Contents
and Spreads to Large Horse Barn.
Two Hundred Animals Are Taken Out Safely.

St. Paul, July 1.—Three men were injured and damage estimated at $83,100 was wrought by fire which swept through half a block in the Midway district, destroying a lumber shed with its contents, leveling a big horse barn and damaging the three-story Columbia hall building, 1927-1931 University avenue. All the losses are covered by insurance.

The blaze, the origin of which is unknown, started in a lumber shed belonging to Brooks Bros. The building was about 100 feet square. Henry Ragness, employed in the shed, gave the alarm after he had discovered flames in the center of the building. Before the fire was under control it was announced that the burned building will be replaced with better structures immediately.

The Barrett & Zimmerman building, wholly of frame construction, burned even more rapidly than did the lumber concern's shed with its wooden contents.

Two Hundred Horses Saved.

About 200 horses which were stabled in the barn were removed in time to escape injury. Quantities of feed and many sets of harness burned with the barn.

The Columbia hall building, a brick structure located between the Barrett & Zimmerman barns and the lumber shed, caught fire at the rear of the second and third stories. Christopher Severance, night watchman at the barns, had a room in the apartment occupied by Mrs. John Seymour and her son, on the second floor of the building.

Severance was asleep when the fire started and when the flames swept through the windows into his room he was burned severely about the head and body. He was removed from the building and taken to Cobb hospital.

Fred Lindstrom, janitor of Columbia hall, suffered minor burns while trying to extinguish the flames in the third story.

Andrew McGeary, pipeman at No. 14 engine house, was cut by glass while a squad of firemen were working in the wreckage. McGeary was treated at a nearby drug store and went to his home.

STATE BUSINESS GROWING

Minnesota's Fiscal Year 1914 Will
Total $41,000,000.

St. Paul, July 1.—The total volume of business of the state of Minnesota for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1914, will approximate $41,000,000.

The volume for the first eleven months of the year, at the close of business June 30, was $38,823,124.42. For the entire fiscal year ending July 31, 1913, the receipts and disbursements aggregated but $36,769,163.37, or more than $2,000,000 less than those for eleven months of this year.

These statistics are contained in a statement issued by Walter J. Smith, state treasurer, and show the rapid growth of the volume of business of the state of Minnesota in the various phases of its government activities.

At the close of business June 30 there was a balance of $2,518,878.86 in the state treasury.

Bombardier Wells Knocks Out Australian Fighter.

London, July 1.—Bombardier Wells, the English pugilist, knocked out Colin Bell, an Australian, in the second round at the Olympia. The fight was for the championship of the British empire and was scheduled to go twenty rounds.

By this victory Wells won $10,000 and regained some of his lost prestige, for while it was recognized that so far as science was concerned he could meet any heavyweight, his frequent defeats led to the opinion that he lacked the stamina, backbone and nerve necessary for a first class fighter. But the form he displayed against the rugged Australian champion again has put him among the "white hopes."

Washington, July 1.—After days of parliamentary wrangling both houses of congress agreed to appropriate for automobiles for Vice President Marshall and Speaker Clark. Each will have a car costing $4,500.

Republican Leader Mann, referring to the Baltimore convention, said: "I think we ought to give him a slight recognition of his great abilities as speaker, remembering that but for a chance he would now have been president, enjoying the privileges of many automobiles. I do not wish to draw comparisons between the speaker and the president, but if Champ Clark had been nominated and elected president we all would have been proud of him in that position."

SOCIAL LEADER IS
ASSASSIN'S VICTIMMurderer Kills Brooklyn Woman
as She Sits Near Window.

Freeport, N. Y., July 1.—While seated in a chair in the office of Dr. Edward Carman, a prominent physician, Mrs. Louise Bailey, wife of William D. Bailey, a Brooklyn hat manufacturer, was shot and killed instantly.

Her assassin broke a window pane with the muzzle of a revolver, thrust a hand through the rent in the glass, pushed aside the curtains and fired the fatal shot.

Mrs. Bailey, an attractive woman, thirty-seven years old, lived with her husband at the home of her mother, Mrs. Jennie Duryea, in Hempstead, five miles from Freeport.

The bullet struck the woman in the right shoulder and traveled downward, striking her heart.

SECURED DIVORCE IN 1867

Second Wife of Plaintiff Has Decree
Recorded.

Janesville, Wis., July 1.—In 1867 John K. White, a farmer residing near Edgerton, secured a divorce from his wife, Margaret Ann White, the decree being granted by Judge W. F. Lyons in circuit court.

The judgment was never filed, however, and it remained for his second wife to put the decree into effective legal operation after nearly fifty years and after the complainant's death. The whereabouts of the divorced wife is unknown.

After Mr. White's death, his widow, Cananda A. White, applied for a widow's pension, but was unable to give legal proof of her husband's divorce. It was found necessary to go into court and make application that the decrees signed in '67 be filed, which was granted by Judge Grimm, who issued an order declaring the divorce in operation from the time the decree was given.

riation Bill.

Washington, July 1.—President Wilson's signature to the naval appropriation bill authorized the construction of two super-dreadnaughts and fourteen auxiliary war vessels and the building of a third huge battleship with proceeds from the sale of the Idaho and Mississippi.

Secretary Daniels, pointing out that the bill carried half a million dollars less than last year's appropriation, said retrenchments had been accomplished "through economies and insistence upon competition."

Practice of Selling Tickets to Candidates a Common One—House Always Acquits Men Charged With Expending
Too Much Money—Hayden Makes Unique Plea For Public Building.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, July 1.—[Special.]—The long struggle that has been going on for years to make it impossible for rich men to buy their way into congress has not yet ended.

Congress did pass a law limiting the contributions of any candidate for the senate to $10,000 and for the house $5,000, but provided no punishment for a greater expenditure. The house since voted practically to exonerate a man who spent four or five times the amount in his primary campaign, which is a vindication of the claim of many members that the primary is a purely state function and that the national government has nothing whatever to do with it.

Senator Owen of Oklahoma, who has given a great deal of attention to such matters, has introduced a series of bills intended to strictly limit expenditures and to prevent men from indirectly spending money to secure elections to the senate and house. There are many methods used by men of wealth to secure support, and it is the aim of the Owen bills to force a strict adherence to the spirit of the legislation.

To Correct an Abuse.

One of the bills which Owen has introduced provides that a candidate shall not contribute, nor shall he be asked to contribute to any charitable, fraternal or religious cause or organization. Nor is he to subscribe or ask to subscribe to the support of a club, nor to buy tickets to an entertainment or ball, nor to subscribe to space in a book, program, periodical or other publication.

This will correct one of the greatest abuses that take place in every campaign. Every organization which desires to raise a fund for any purpose whatever will send from ten to fifty tickets to the candidate of the senate or house, and he is expected to send a check in return or to incur the ill will of such organization.

A senator told me that this form of contribution cost him in the neighborhood of $8,000 in one campaign. He bought tickets for church fairs, Sunday school picnics, brass band concerts, suppers, balls, games and, in fact, everything that the fertile ingenuity of people who wanted to get money could devise. Congressmen are getting tired of being held up in that way.

Hayden's Vain Plea.

Congressman Hayden of Arizona expressed a great desire to get a public building bill passed, and Minority Leader Mann, as usual, was standing in the way. Finally Hayden was given permission to read an article from a paper published in the town where the building was to be located. Indirectly it accused Hayden of favoring his home town as against the town that wanted the building, but it urged him to do his best notwithstanding.

"Carl Hayden," said the paper, "could get somebody to object to the bill when he calls it up, but we do not think Carl will do a trick like that."

"I want to ask," said Hayden after reading the paper, "that the gentleman from Illinois acquit me of making any arrangement with him to object to this bill, which he has done."

Mann remarked that he was not going to compromise with the Arizona man in any way whatever.

The Trouble in the Senate.

Senator Brandegee wanted to make a statement in the senate one day, and he started out by asking that he should not be interrupted. Of course that did not make any difference with John Sharp Williams, who at the first opportunity broke in. A little later Senator Borah of Idaho wanted to say something.

"That is the trouble about trying to be courteous in this body," declared Senator Brandegee. "If a senator yields to any one member he is going to be interrupted by ninety-five others." The trouble with "senatorial courtesy" is it always ends just as soon as it requires any senator to give up anything that he happens to want at any time.

Little Things That Count.

It is a rather interesting fact that some of the little things take up more time than anything else. I refer particularly to the proposition to vote an automobile to the vice president. That matter has been bounced back and forth between the senate and house for years. Senator McCumber of North Dakota made a fairly plain statement of it the last time it was up in the senate when he said: "I am perfectly willing to vote the vice president $4,000 or $5,000 extra salary and let him decide whether he wants to use it for an automobile or for another purpose. If the vice president is not getting enough salary it ought to be raised. But it should not be increased in this indirect manner."

Some Other Day.

"Never give up."

WETS WISH FEWER SALOONS

Superior Retail Liquor Dealers Ap-
peal to Council.

Superior, Wis., July 1.—That no new saloons be licensed until there are fewer than one to every 500 population is the proposition placed before the city commission by the Superior Retail Liquor Dealers' association.

Under the Baker law, which is advocated, so its sponsors state, in order to make it easier for a place to be conducted properly and lawfully and still have a respectable income, there are more than 162 liquor licenses issued each year in Superior, the city receiving $500 for each. A hundred and fifty are for retail shops.

The saloon keepers' plan proposes that the percentage be automatically reduced with the natural growth of the city.

MONTANA CAN HAVE
COMMODITY RATESOutbound and Inbound Tariffs
Need Not Be the Same.

Helena, Mont., July 1.—The Montana railroad commission has been advised by Attorney General Kelly that it has authority to establish one rate for outgoing business and another for inbound business. In other words, the commission can put into effect jobbing or commodity rates, which will have the effect of building up certain points as jobbing centers. The commission asked:

"Can one city or town in the state enjoy a lower freight rate on outbound business that is charged for the same service and moving over the same rails inbound?"

"The commission," replies Mr. Kelly, after a long analysis of the various factors involved, "is vested with discretionary power and authority in the fixing of rates. A question of fact is thus presented to it and, in deciding the question, the rule to be observed is that which is just and reasonable under existing circumstances, and so far as possible, uniformity commensurate with the public welfare under similar conditions. The name applied to the rate is immaterial. The commission, therefore, has the authority, when in its judgment conditions justify it, to establish one rate for outgoing business and another for inbound business."

SUFFRAGE STATE QUESTION

President Gives Party of Women His Personal Opinion.

Washington, July 1.—Five hundred members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs marched to the White House and drew from President Wilson a final refusal to accede to demands that he support the movement for a woman suffrage amendment to the federal Constitution.

The president reiterated his statement to previous delegations that his party had not embodied this question in its platform and then for the first time announced his personal conviction that the suffrage issue was one for settlement by the states and not by the federal government.

St. Paul, July 1.—Antone Wenzel, seventy-five years old, one of the pioneer residents of Minnesota, died as a result of old age at his home.

Mr. Wenzel has been a resident of Minnesota since 1841, when his parents moved to Centerville. They were the second white family to settle in that vicinity.

Until 1886 Mr. Wenzel lived on the farm of his father. At that time he came to St. Paul and established a grocery business on Rice street.

He retired from the grocery business in 1899, giving his attention to city and country property.

Pittsburg, July 1.—Former President Roosevelt made his first speech here in the 1914 campaign. He spent five hours in Pittsburg and was welcomed enthusiastically. In his address before the Pennsylvania Progressive league he criticizes the policies of the Wilson administration, attacked Senator Boies Penrose and appealed for support of the Progressive ticket.

It was apparent as soon as Colonel Roosevelt began to speak that he did not possess his former strength and vigor. There was a noticeable change in his manner, as compared with that of two years ago, when he was engaged in his previous campaign.

Colonel Roosevelt made the trip to Pittsburg against the advice of his physician and it was felt that the result would go far toward indicating to what extent he would be able to take part in the Progressive party's battle of the next four months.

Throat Still Troubles Him.

He spoke with comparative ease, after the first few sentences, but there was a huskiness in his voice which showed that his throat was still troubling him. Persons in the rear of the building at times found it difficult to hear him. His gestures were less rapid and vigorous than of old and as he neared the end of his speech he plainly was weary.

Colonel Roosevelt publicly recognized the difficulties under which he was laboring. A man in the crowd called out something which he could not hear.

"I didn't hear you," the colonel said, "and yet you have a good voice." Colonel Roosevelt coined a new phrase in his speech when he spoke of "government by convulsion." By this, he said, he meant the passing back and forth of power between the Republican and Democratic parties, which he said would happen unless the people entrusted the power to the Progressive party.

The former president's speech was regarded by Progressive leaders here as an indication of the line of attack which the party would follow in this year's campaign. It was an unpromising speech.

No Hint of Olive Branch.

Before he made it the report had gone out that he would hold out the olive branch to the Republican party, but there was no hint of such a thing in his remarks. He appealed to individual Republicans to support the Progressive ticket, but suggested no dealings with the Republican party as an organization. He denounced the Republican leaders who, he said, had misrepresented the people. He attacked Senator Penrose unsparingly.

"Let him go in sackcloth and ashes," he said, "because it was owing to him and his associates that the Democratic party now has power to do wrong. No more scandalous appeal could be made than to return him to power to right the wrongs for which he is primarily responsible."

The Wilson administration's policies, Colonel Roosevelt said, are responsible for backward business and unemployment. No progress has been made, he said, toward solution of the trust question, and on this point he went into what he later said was the most comprehensive statement of his position he ever had made.

+ factory and indicating a desire
+ on the part of the Constitu-
+ tionalists to enter into informal
+ conferences. The American

+ *****

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 1.—An indefinite recess of mediation was decided upon by Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil and Ministers Suarez and Naon of Chile and Argentina, respectively.

This action followed the receipt of a note from General Carranza expressing an inclination to participate in informal conferences with Huerta delegates for the solution of Mexico's internal problems, but asking for more
time in which to consult his subordinate generals.

The Constitutionalist chief declared that he wished to get full authority
from the signers of the plan of the Guadalupe, the platform of the Constitutionalist movement, so that the delegates might be clothed with plenary powers. He gave no inkling as to the length of time such consultation might require.

Conference Has Not Adjourned.

The mediators explained that mediation had not adjourned, but that perhaps the last formal meeting had been held.

Communication hereafter may be carried on by telegraph from the respective homes of the mediators and delegates. Ambassador Da Gama pointed out that the mediation of a boundary dispute between Ecuador
and Peru in which the United States and Brazil had tendered their good offices in 1910 was still in progress.

A mediation board, he explained, is not like an international conference with a definite time for meeting and adjourning and a fixed program. Mediation chiefly offers advice to parties
at conflict and devises a means for the composition of international delegates.

Chief Work Has Been Done.

The mediators consider that their chief work has been done. They have drawn up a series of protocols settling forth the conditions under which the United States will recognize a new government.

When a satisfactory government is established American forces will be withdrawn and both international and national problems solved.

Originally the three diplomats tendered their good offices to avert war.
This, they think, has been accomplished. In the acceptance by the United States of their tender of good offices hope was expressed by Secretary Bryan that the "several elements" in Mexico might be brought together and the country pacified. The three envoys think that in devising
the plan for informal conferences between the two factions their own task
is ended and that the responsibility for the completion of the peace program rests on the Mexicans themselves.

tures immediately.

The Barrett & Zimmerman building, wholly of frame construction,
burned even more rapidly than did the lumber concern's shed with its wooden contents.

Two Hundred Horses Saved.

About 200 horses which were sta-
bled in the barn were removed in time to escape injury. Quantities of feed and many sets of harness burned with
the barn.

The Columbia hall building, a brick structure located between the Barrett & Zimmerman barns and the lumber shed, caught fire at the rear of the second and third stories. Christopher Severance, night watchman at the barns, had a room in the apartment occupied by Mrs. John Seymour and her son, on the second floor of the building.

Severance was asleep when the fire started and when the flames swept through the windows into his room
he was burned severely about the head and body. He was removed from the building and taken to Cobb hospital.

Fred Lindstrom, janitor of Columbia hall, suffered minor burns while trying to extinguish the flames in the third story.

Andrew McGeary, pipeman at No. 14
engine house, was cut by glass while a squad of firemen were working in the wreckage. McGeary was treated at a nearby drug store and went to his home.

STATE BUSINESS GROWING

Minnesota's Fiscal Year 1914 Will
Total $41,000,000.

St. Paul, July 1.—The total volume of business of the state of Minnesota
for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1914, will approximate $41,000,000.

The volume for the first eleven months of the year, at the close of business June 30, was $38,823,124.42.

For the entire fiscal year ending
July 31, 1913, the receipts and disbursements aggregated but $36,769-163.37, or more than $2,000,000 less than those for eleven months of this year.

These statistics are contained in a statement issued by Walter J. Smith, state treasurer, and show the rapid growth of the volume of business of the state of Minnesota in the various phases of its government activities.

At the close of business June 30
there was a balance of $2,518,878.86
in the state treasury.

RECOVERS LOST PRESTIGE

Bombardier Wells Knocks Out Australian Fighter.

London, July 1.—Bombardier Wells,
the English pugilist, knocked out Colin Bell, an Australian, in the second round at the Olympia. The fight was for the championship of the British empire and was scheduled to go twenty rounds.

By this victory Wells won $10,000
and regained some of his lost prestige, for while it was recognized that so far as science was concerned he could meet any heavyweight, his frequent defeats led to the opinion that he lacked the stamina, backbone and nerve necessary for a first class fighter. But the form he displayed against the rugged Australian champion again
has put him among the "white hopes."

SPEAKER GETS MOTOR CAR

Vice President Also Given Machine
Costing $4,500.

Washington, July 1.—After days of parliamentary wrangling both houses
of congress agreed to appropriate for automobiles for Vice President Marshall and Speaker Clark. Each will have a car costing $4,500.

Republican Leader Mann, referring to the Baltimore convention, said: "I think we ought to give him a slight recognition of his great abilities as speaker, remembering that but for a chance he would now have been president, enjoying the privileges of many automobiles. I do not wish to draw comparisons between the speaker and the president, but if Champ Clark had been nominated and elected president
we all would have been proud of him
in that position."

SOCIAL LEADER IS
ASSASSIN'S VICTIMMurderer Kills Brooklyn Woman
as She Sits Near Window.

Freeport, N. Y., July 1.—While seated in a chair in the office of Dr.
Edward Carman, a prominent physician, Mrs. Louise Bailey, wife of William D. Bailey, a Brooklyn hat manufacturer, was shot and killed instantly.

Her assassin broke a window pane
with the muzzle of a revolver, thrust
a hand through the rent in the glass,
pushed aside the curtains and fired
the fatal shot.

Mrs. Bailey, an attractive woman,
thirty-seven years old, lived with her husband at the home of her mother, Mrs. Jennie Duryea, in Hempstead,
five miles from Freeport.

The bullet struck the woman in the right shoulder and traveled downward, striking her heart.

SECURED DIVORCE IN 1867

Recorded.

Janesville, Wis., July 1.—In 1867
John K. White, a farmer residing near Edgerton, secured a divorce from his wife, Margaret Ann White, the decree being granted by Judge W. F. Lyons
in circuit court.

The judgment was never filed, however, and it remained for his second wife to put the decree into effective
legal operation after nearly fifty years
and after the complainant's death.
The whereabouts of the divorced wife
is unknown.

After Mr. White's death, his widow, Candace A. White, applied for a widow's pension, but was unable to give
legal proof of her husband's divorce.
It was found necessary to go into court and make application that the decree signed in '67 be filed, which was granted by Judge Grimm, who issued an order declaring the divorce
in operation from the time the decree
was given.

PROVIDES THREE WARSHIPS

President Wilson Signs Naval Appropriation Bill.

Washington, July 1.—President Wilson's signature to the naval appropriation bill authorized the construction of two super-dreadnaughts and fourteen auxiliary war vessels and the building of a third huge battleship with proceeds from the sale of the Idaho and Mississippi.

Secretary Daniels, pointing out that the bill carried half a million dollars
less than last year's appropriation,
said retrenchments had been accomplished "through economies and insistence upon competition."

SEEKING TO LIMIT
CAMPAIGN FUNDSBill Would Make Regulations
More Drastic.

EASILY EVADED BY WEALTHY

Practice of Selling Tickets to Candidates a Common One—House Always Acquits Men Charged With Expend-ing Too Much Money—Hayden Makes Unique Plea For Public Building.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, July 1.—[Special.]—The long struggle that has been going on for years to make it impossible for rich men to buy their way into congress has not yet ended.

Congress did pass a law limiting the contributions of any candidate for the senate to $10,000 and for the house $5-000, but provided no punishment for a greater expenditure. The house since voted practically to exonerate a man who spent four or five times the amount in his primary campaign, which is a vindication of the claim of many members that the primary is a purely state function and that the national government has nothing whatever to do with it.

Senator Owen of Oklahoma, who has given a great deal of attention to such matters, has introduced a series of bills intended to strictly limit expenditures and to prevent men from indirectly spending money to secure elections to the senate and house. There are many methods used by men of wealth to secure support, and it is the aim of the Owen bills to force a strict adherence to the spirit of the legislation.

To Correct an Abuse.

One of the bills which Owen has introduced provides that a candidate
shall not contribute, nor shall he be asked to contribute to any charitable,
fraternal or religious cause or organization. Nor is he to subscribe or ask
to subscribe to the support of a club,
nor to buy tickets to an entertainment
or ball; nor to subscribe to space in a book, program, periodical or other publication.

This will correct one of the greatest abuses that take place in every campaign. Every organization which desires to raise a fund for any purpose
whatever will send from ten to fifty tickets to the candidate of the senate
or house, and he is expected to send a check in return or to incur the ill will
of such organization.

A senator told me that this form of contribution cost him in the neighborhood of $8,000 in one campaign. He bought tickets for church fairs, Sunday school picnics, brass band concerts, suppers, balls, games and, in fact, everything that the fertile imagination of people who wanted to get money could devise. Congressmen are getting tired of being held up in that way.

Hayden's Vain Plea.

Congressman Hayden of Arizona expressed a great desire to get a public building bill passed, and Minority Leader Mann, as usual, was standing in the way. Finally Hayden was given permission to read an article from a paper published in the town where the building was to be located. Indirectly it accused Hayden of favoring his home town as against the town that wanted the building, but it urged him
to do his best notwithstanding.
"Carl Hayden," said the paper, "could get somebody to object to the bill,
when he calls it up, but we do not think Carl will do a trick like that."
"I want to ask," said Hayden after reading the paper, "that the gentleman from Illinois acquit me of making any arrangement with him to object to this bill, which he has done."

Mann remarked that he was not going to compromise with the Arizona
man in any way whatever.

The Trouble in the Senate.

Senator Brandegee wanted to make a statement in the senate one day, and he started out by asking that he should not be interrupted. Of course that did not make any difference with John Sharp Williams, who at the first opportunity broke in. A little later Senator Borah of Idaho wanted to say something.

"That is the trouble about trying to be courteous in this body," declared Senator Brandegee. "If a senator yields to any one member he is going to be interrupted by ninety-five others." The trouble with "senatorial courtesy" is it always ends just as soon as it requires any senator to give up anything that he happens to want
at the time.

Little Things That Count.

It is a rather interesting fact that some of the little things take up more time than anything else. I refer particularly to the proposition to vote an automobile to the vice president. That matter has been bounced back and forth between the senate and house
for years. Senator McCumber of North Dakota made a fairly plain statement
of it the last time it was up in the senate when he said: "I am perfectly willing to vote the vice president $4,000
or $5,000 extra salary and let him decide whether he wants to use it for an automobile or for another purpose. If the vice president is not getting enough salary it ought to be raised. But it should not be increased in this indirect manner."

Some Other Day.

"Never give up."
"I don't; I tell them to come around next week."—Boston Herald.

Superior Retail Liquor Dealers Ap-
peal to Council.

Superior, Wis., July 1.—That no
new saloons be licensed until there are fewer than one to every 500 population is the proposition placed before the city commission by the Superior Retail Liquor Dealers' association.

Under the Baker law, which is advocated, so its sponsors state, in order to make it easier for a place to be conducted properly and lawfully
and still have a respectable income,
there are more than 162 liquor licenses
issued each year in Superior, the city receiving $500 for each. A hundred and fifty are for retail shops.

The saloon keepers' plan proposes that the percentage be automatically
reduced with the natural growth of the city.

MONTANA CAN HAVE
COMMODITY RATESOutbound and Inbound Tariffs
Need Not Be the Same.

Helena, Mont., July 1.—The Montana railroad commission has been advised by Attorney General Kelly that it has authority to establish one rate
for outgoing business and another for inbound business. In other words, the commission can put into effect
jobbing or commodity rates, which will have the effect of building up certain points as jobbing centers. The commission asked:

"Can one city or town in the state
enjoy a lower freight rate on outbound
business that is charged for the same
service and moving over the same
rails inbound?"

"The commission," replies Mr. Kelly, after a long analysis of the various factors involved, "is vested with discretionary power and authority in the fixing of rates. A question of fact is thus presented to it, and in deciding the question, the rule to be observed is that which is just and reasonable under existing circumstances,
and so far as possible, uniformity
commensurate with the public welfare under similar conditions. The name applied to the rate is immaterial. The commission, therefore, has the authority, when in its judgment
conditions justify it, to establish one
rate for outgoing business and another
for inbound business."

President Gives Party of Women His Personal Opinion.

Washington, July 1.—Five hundred members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs marched to the White House and drew from President Wilson a final refusal to accede to demands that he support the movement
for a woman suffrage amendment to the federal Constitution.

The president reiterated his statement to previous delegations that his party had not embodied this question
in its platform and then for the first time announced his personal conviction that the suffrage issue was one
for settlement by the states and not by the federal government.

Roosevelt Flays Senator Penrose
in Campaign Speech.

HUSKINESS IN HIS VOICE

When the Former President Began
His Address It Was Apparent He Did Not Possess His Former Strength and Vigor—Critiques Wilson Administration and Asks Support for the Progressive Ticket.

Pittsburg, July 1.—Former President Roosevelt made his first speech here in the 1914 campaign. He spent five hours in Pittsburg and was welcomed enthusiastically. In his address before the Pennsylvania Progressive league he criticises the policies of the Wilson administration, attacked Senator Boies Penrose and appealed for support of the Progressive ticket.

It was apparent as soon as Colonel Roosevelt began to speak that he did not possess his former strength and vigor. There was a noticeable change in his manner, as compared with that of two years ago, when he was engaged in his previous campaign.

Colonel Roosevelt made the trip to Pittsburg against the advice of his physician and it was felt that the result would go far toward indicating to what extent he would be able to take part in the Progressive party's battle of the next four months.

Throat Still Troubles Him.

He spoke with comparative ease,
after the first few sentences, but there was a huskiness in his voice
which showed that his throat was still troubling him. Persons in the rear of the building at times found it difficult to hear him. His gestures were less rapid and vigorous than of old and as he neared the end of his speech he plainly was weary.

Colonel Roosevelt publicly recognized the difficulties under which he was laboring. A man in the crowd called out something which he could not hear.

"I didn't hear you," the colonel
said, "and yet you have a good voice."
Colonel Roosevelt coined a new phrase in his speech when he spoke of "government by convulsion." By this, he said, he meant the passing back and forth of power between the Republican and Democratic parties,
which he said would happen unless
the people entrusted the power to the Progressive party.

The former president's speech was regarded by Progressive leaders here
as an indication of the line of attack
which the party would follow in this year's campaign. It was an uncompromising speech.

No Hint of Olive Branch.

Before he made it the report had gone out that he would hold out the
olive branch to the Republican party,
but there was no hint of such a thing
in his remarks. He appealed to individual Republicans to support the Progressive ticket, but suggested no
dealings with the Republican party as an organization. He denounced the Republican leaders who, he said, had misrepresented the people. He attacked Senator Penrose unsparingly.

"Let him go in sackcloth and ashes," he said, "because it was owing to him and his associates that the Democratic party now has power to do wrong. No more scandalous appeal could be made than to return
him to power to right the wrongs for which he is primarily responsible."
The Wilson administration's policies, Colonel Roosevelt said, are responsible for backward business and unemployment. No progress has been made, he said, toward solution of the trust question, and on this point he went into what he later said was the most comprehensive statement of his position he ever had made.

The Way to His Vote.
Lord Beaconsfield's skill in picking up stray votes was well known. An illustration of it is given in a book by Henry W. Lucy.

At the time that the imperial titles
oil was pending there was a certain pompous little Irishman, Dr. O'Leary, who seemed manageable and was desirable. One evening in the lobby Disraeli laid a hand familiarly on his shoulder.

"Dear Dr. O'Leary, the resemblance is most striking," he said. "I really thought I saw again my old friend
Tom Moore."

The vain little gentleman was captured.

Teck's Title From a Mountain.
Prince Alexander of Teck derives his title not from a province, but from a mountain. The mountain towers to the modest height of some 2,500 feet in Suabia, southern Germany. Two miles from Mount Teck is the village of Kirchheim unter Teck, in whose heart
still remains the ancient schloss of the dukes, now converted into a government school for girls. Feudalism has faded from this German valley, and the moat around the old walls is now filled with trees. But the village children still make annual trips to the mountain to hold a feast and to sing on

MUSIC AND DRAMAAt the Grand

If you really want to spend a real patriotic 4th of July the management of the Grand wish you to come and bring the children to see "Washington at Valley Forge," a historical picture depicting life in colonial times.

It will make you more patriotic and will instill in the children's minds an important event in the history of the United States. A regular twenty-five and fifty cent production at regular Grand prices.

At the Columbia

Th play for today and tomorrow
is the "Governor's Ghost," a beautiful and engrossing political drama.

Stuart Homer, backed by the reform party, runs for the assembly.
Rev. Richard Walters and his son Horace aid him. Homer wants his sister Alice to marry young Walters,
knowing nothing of her love affair
with Jefferson Blair, a young lawyer.
Helen, Homer's wife, knows, however,
and opposes the match, and an elopement is planned. Helen finds Blair's note to Alice, reading simply, "Come to my bungalow, I love you. We will go away together, believe me, sincere, JEFF."

Determined to prevent this, Helen starts for his bungalow alone, Homer being at the political meeting. Alice,
on her way to Blair, crosses an old bridge to avoid being seen by Walter,
who happens in that vicinity. The bridge falls, throwing her unconscious in a deep ravine, where she is exposed to the storm until found by strangers and later brought home.
Helen is seen by Walters entering Blair's bungalow. Forming an unjust conclusion, Walters hurries to Homer at the meeting. Homer, not knowing of Blair's love for Alice,
goes to the bungalow. Meanwhile,
Helen has surprised Blair, and shown him the note, and told him she intends to wait and take Alice home.
At this juncture, Homer arrives and all doubts of his wife's guilt are swept aside on his finding of the incriminating note. Homer orders Helen to leave his house and her little girl,
when a word from Alice, injured and in strange hands, would have explained everything. Broken hearted and despondent, Helen is caught in the storm and picked up, practically out of her mind, by an automobile
party of questionable character.
Alice, is brought home, only to die.
Her story and Blair's grief convince Homer of his terrible mistake. He is agonized at obtaining no clue to Helen's whereabouts. Helen's despondency makes her a ready convert
to the fast life of her companions.
The remainder of the story is taken
after an elapse of 15 years and is one great scene after another. Don't fail to see it.

Egyptian Obelisks.
The Egyptian obelisk that stands in Central park was erected by Thothmes
III. of the eighteenth dynasty of Egyptian kings about the year 1400
B. C. It is therefore at least 3,300 years old. It was standing long before Moses and the Israelites lived in Egypt. It was erected, together with its companion obelisk now in London,
to adorn the temple of On, whose location is identical with the Heliopolis of later times. One obelisk erected by a much earlier monarch of the twelfth dynasty is still standing at its original site, where the temple of On was,
and is the only object remaining to mark the location of that temple.—

The Better Part.

A delightful little story is told of Prosper Merimee, the French author.
He was once a guest at a royal hunt.
When hares, pheasants and other game were driven before the emperor
and his followers and the servants
picked up the victims of the sport.

Among all the members of the hunting party Prosper Merimee alone had no trophy to display.

"How does this happen?" asked
some one.

"Where game is so plenty the merit
of a marksman seems to me to lie in hitting nothing," replied Merimee, with grave courtesy, "so I fired between the birds."

Bladder irritations, kidney troubles,
dull headaches, weariness, pain in back and sides, all show the kidneys
need to be toned up, strengthened,
their regular action restored. Foley Kidney Pills will do it surely and quickly. They give good health, freedom from pain, a return of appetite
and sound sleep. Try them. H. P.

Teck's Title From a Mountain. Prince Alexander of Teck derives his title not from a province, but from a mountain. The mountain towers to the modest height of some 2,500 feet in Suabia, southern Germany. Two miles from Mount Teck is the village of Kirchheim unter Teck, in whose heart still remains the ancient Schloss of the dukes, now converted into a government school for girls. Feudalism has faded from this German valley, and the moat around the old walls is now filled with trees. But the village children still make annual trips to the mountain to hold a feast and to sing on their way home the local folk song of "The Tecks, the Tecks; Long Live the Tecks!"—London Standard.

J. C. BARBER THE FARMERS' FRIEND

His "Twin Oaks" Farm at Nokay Lake is an Ideal Farm of Crow Wing County

PROVES THE RICHNESS OF SOIL

Barber Employs Scores of Farmers and Renewes Their Faith in Farming

Men may strive for public honor, for fame, for great riches, but to J. C. Barber, of "Twin Oaks" farm at Nokay Lake, belongs a greater distinction, that of striving to be the farmers' friend.

Mr. Barber has done a great work in farming in Crow Wing county, greater in his sphere than James J. Hill with all his experimental farms and farming methods. Mr. Barber has gone among the farmers of Nokay Lake. He has carved out a farm in the wilderness and by example and encouragement, he has built up a farming community about him that is the pride of Crow Wing county.

How has he done it? He has given employment to scores of farmers as masons, painters, blacksmiths, carpenters, laborers in the fields, etc.

On the great country home, named "Twin Oaks," every board was nailed, every joist set, all plastering, painting, etc., every bit of work in the construction of his own palatial residence, of the farm superintendent's cottage, of the regular settlement of barns, sheds, etc., every bit of this work was done by farmers. And Barber pays good wages for good work.

He has put the community about him on its feet, revived their interest in farming and done more for this section of Crow Wing county than any other man living. The Barber plan of self-help in a rural district is something that can be copied with credit by any man who wants to do good in the best possible way.

Mr. Barber has a fine Jersey-Duroc boar from Wisconsin. The little pigs are sold at cost or given to the farmers about him and they are taught the value of blooded pigs. Mr. Barber has a blooded bull. His offspring stocks the neighboring farms, as well as Mr. Barber's place.

The other day a farmer called and saw one of the Holstein bull calves sporting about the field. The farmer heaved a sigh and said:

"I would give anything if I had that calf."

"Tell you what I'll do," said Mr. Barber. "I'll trade calves with you. You bring over your calf and I'll give you the Holstein."

Although that farmer lived ten miles away, he was back before sundown with his scrub calf and made the exchange. The result of the Barber plan, you ask? Mr. Barber did his neighbor a good turn, he introduced blooded stock on that farm, he preserved that farmer's good opinion of himself and he made a friend for life of his neighbor.

"Some of my doings," said Mr. Barber, "do not appeal to some commercially minded people. But it pleases me. Cast your bread on the waters and they will return to you. Some of my bread is coming back, bread that was tossed out years ago."

"Crow Wing county," said Mr. Barber, as he surveyed his broad acres and took the company of visitors into his confidence, "this county has the finest water and soil and if you farm intelligently you will get results."

Mr. Barber believes in good roads. That's why he built and paid for out of his own pocket for miles of road on his land and leading to his farm and the county of Crow Wing is beneficiary of his benevolence. He has spent to date $5,000 on roads and bridges. He hauled in 91 loads of gravel on a strip 300 feet long, filling a mudhole in the main county road. Over this was hauled 106 loads of material bought in Brainerd and to be used on his farm with other purchases to be made in the near future. Mr. Barber repaired the road at his own expense and the county had just so much road work done for nothing.

When Mr. Barber's sister was taken sick at "Twin Oaks" the big 90 horsepower car and its chauffeur sped to Brainerd 13 miles in 16 minutes. In 49 minutes the car made the round trip from Barber's to Brainerd and brought back a doctor.

Mr. Barber has been spending his last 28 summers at Nokay Lake. At first the section was heavily wooded. Willows covered the shores of the lakes. The first building measured 14 by 30 feet in size and Mr. Barber's first holdings were three and three-quarter acres. He had a couple of boats there. It was not unusual for shop men to come out and catch a whole boat load of bass, pike, croppies, pickerel, etc.

Now Mr. Barber has 26 men working for him on the big acreage of "Twin Oaks" farm. There are 1,150 acres embraced in his country estate, and 300 acres are under cultivation. He is figuring on buying another forty.

He has commenced putting in blooded stock. From Iowa last year he imported brood mares and they are doing well in this county. He contemplates buying a stallion and his service will be free to the farmers. Blooded pigs have been introduced. In the pig pens 83 pigs of high degree scampers about.

When a man wants a job he sees Mr. Barber. And the kids are following suit. Last week, said Mr. Barber, a half a dozen boys called at the house.

"Want to hire any men?" asked the spokesman, a little fellow.

"What can you do?" asked Mr. Barber in return.

"Just turn us on something to do," was the reply.

"How would a watermelon do?" queried Mr. Barber.

"Oh, we want to do what the other two boys are doing who are working for you," said the six kids in a chorus.

And then the days of his youth came back to Mr. Barber and he realized the proximity of the Fourth of July. He gave them all a job and in the warm days preceding the Fourth a band of children are toiling with the quack grass at $1 a day, and accumulating a celebration stake.

Mr. Barber made his money from car trucks inventions. There is a big demand today for self-clearing coal cars and Mr. Barber is meeting the emergency. At a recent convention if manufacturing men Mr. Barber had on exhibition a coal car which cleared in 23 seconds. The coal unloaded from the bottom. He worked four years on the patent. The car is all steel and weighs accordingly. It is 10 feet high and 41 feet in length.

His first invention was a car truck made 17 years ago. In those days a rigid truck was used which threw all friction on the flange and rails. Barber's invention revolutionized truck building, saved the wear and tear on rolling stock, made money for the railroads and its inventor. The truck has been put on 594,000 cars. It has been continually improved until today 86 patents have been taken out on improvements.

Barber's truck has doubled the life of a car wheel. If he can save a railway $18 on a truck, it means some saving, for the usual order for car trucks is in 1,000 lots. He has no factory now, but other factories make the parts and they are assembled in the various railway car shops of the country, thus giving more employment to men in the car shops.

Mr. Barber was master car builder of the Northern Pacific railway shops under H. J. Small in the early days of the Northern Pacific. Born in St. Lawrence county, New York, at Hammond, his early life was spent

PREPARE FOR THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

Committees Hold Meeting at the D. A. Peterson Store Last Night and Complete Arrangements

DAY AND NIGHT FIREWORKS

Rev. G. P. Sheridan to Deliver Fourth of July Oration, Brainerd-Staples Ball Game

Brainerd will celebrate the Fourth, the glorious anniversary of the nation's independence, in a safe and sane, good, old-fashioned style and the committees having in charge the celebration reported at D. A. Peterson's store last night and the work done and arrangements completed give promise of a good observance of the day, satisfying alike to young and old and the stranger within our gates.

William Meekins, the gallant, old soldier, will be depended on to fire the salute of 21 guns at sunrise.

The parade takes place at 9:30 in the morning and the participants will form at the Northeast Brainerd Hill, march down Broadway to Front, down Front to Fourth street, down Fourth to Laurel, down Laurel to Sixth and north on Sixth to Gregory park.

The parade will be unique this year. It will be led by Chief of Police Quinn and other police mounted, and followed by the Brainerd City band in automobiles, citizens of Brainerd and visitors in automobiles with cars decorated with Brainerd pennants and flags, the Harley-Davidson motorcycle club gay with banners and streamers, sidecars, more autos, and bicycles, etc.

The parade will disband at Gregory park and her the speaking will take place. There will be a prayer offered by Rev. Caleb Benham, rector of the St. Paul's Episcopal church; reading of the Declaration of Independence by Judge W. A. Fleming; oration of the day by Rev. G. P. Sheridan, pastor of the First Congregational church.

At 1:30 in the afternoon the day fireworks will be displayed at the square near the depot. Bring the little folks and see the surprises in store for them. Day fireworks are a great novelty. Brainerd last year was the only town in this section of the Northwest which had day fireworks in addition to the regulation night fireworks and stands in this class again this year.

The program of sports will not be completed for on Front street, the committee deciding to keep the streets clear because there will be such a crowd in town. The sports for the first time in the history of Brainerd will be conducted on the Koering field at 3 o'clock and these are the events:

1. Longest throw from home plate, one throw for each contestant, box of cigars donated by E. W. Dunn.
2. Run around the bases, $2.50 razor donated by Negaard Drug Co.
3. 100 yard dash, free for all, box of Nemo cigars donated by John T. Imgrund.
4. Fat men's race, ham donated by Smith & McGinn.

Staples has promised to turn out in force to root for their ball team and accordingly a large Staples crowd as well as representatives from the other towns west will be in Brainerd.

The fireworks take place in the evening and will be displayed at the Koering field. This is a natural amphitheatre and the banks provide room for the scores of Brainerd and visiting automobiles, and for the hundreds of pedestrians who will be seated about in a huge semi-circle.

The ball at Gardner auditorium starts early as the Fourth of July this year is on a Saturday. There will be amusement for everyone and no one will make a mistake when he remains in Brainerd to celebrate or if he comes from the many towns about Brainerd and celebrates in Brainerd.

Posters advertising the Fourth have been posted in the city and neighboring towns. Display advertisements have been inserted in a dozen country papers within a radius of thirty miles from Brainerd. Stores in Brainerd will close Friday night at 9 o'clock and remain closed all day Saturday, July 4th.

It will be well for towns in the vicinity of Brainerd, who have been visited by huge shop picnics and delegations of baseball fans, and this means Crosby, Deerwood, Little Falls, Staples and other points, that the time to repay those friendly visits of Brainerd is now at the Fourth of July celebration. A little reciprocity practiced by neighbors in the visiting line creates a good feeling.

Deerwood, for instance, which had the shop picnic and now wants the merchants and clerks picnic, should visit Brainerd on the Fourth.

J. C. BARBER THE FARMERS' FRIEND

His "Twin Oaks" Farm at Nokay Lake is an Ideal Farm of Crow Wing County

Barber Employs Scores of Farmers and Renews Their Faith in Farming

Men may strive for public honor, for fame, for great riches, but to J. C. Barber, of "Twin Oaks" farm at Nokay Lake, belongs a greater distinction, that of striving to be the farmers' friend.

Mr. Barber has done a great work in farming in Crow Wing county, greater in his sphere than James J. Hill with all his experimental farms and farming methods. Mr. Barber has gone among the farmers of Nokay Lake. He has carved out a farm in the wilderness and by example and encouragement, he has built up a farming community about him that is the pride of Crow Wing county.

How has he done it? He has given employment to scores of farmers as masons, painters, blacksmiths, carpenters, laborers in the fields, etc.

On the great country home, named "Twin Oaks," every board was nailed, every joist set, all plastering, painting, etc., every bit of work in the construction of his own palatial residence, of the farm superintendent's cottage, of the regular settlement of barns, sheds, etc., every bit of this work was done by farmers. And Barber pays good wages for good work.

He has put the community about him on its feet, revived their interest in farming and done more for this section of Crow Wing county than any other man living. The Barber plan of self-help in a rural district is something that can be copied with credit by any man who wants to do good in the best possible way.

Mr. Barber has a fine Jersey-Duroc boar from Wisconsin. The little pigs are sold at cost or given to the farmers about him and they are taught the value of blooded pigs. Mr. Barber has a blooded bull. His offspring stocks the neighboring farms, as well as Mr. Barber's place.

The other day a farmer called and saw one of the Holstein bull calves sporting about the field. The farmer heaved a sigh and said:

"I would give anything if I had that calf."

Although that farmer lived ten miles away, he was back before sundown with his scrub calf and made the exchange. The result of the Barber plan, you ask? Mr. Barber did his neighbor a good turn, he introduced blooded stock on that farm, he preserved that farmer's good opinion of himself and he made a friend for life of his neighbor.

"Some of my doings," said Mr. Barber, "do not appeal to some commercially minded people. But it pleases me. Cast your bread on the waters and they will return to you. Some of my bread is coming back, bread that was tossed out years ago."

"Crow Wing county," said Mr. Barber, as he surveyed his broad acres and took the company of visitors into his confidence, "this county has the finest water and soil and if you farm intelligently you will get results."

on the farm. He came to Brainerd in 1873 and again in 1888.

"My western farm work was short," said Mr. Barber. "I worked at $8 a month for one farmer and haven't got my money yet."

He was employed later at White-water, Wis. Four year's service in the army was Mr. Barber's next experience and he carries the scars of a bullet hole on his right hand. Going on to 70 years now, his face and figure do not reveal his age. He looks more like a lively business man of 50.

Always of a mechanical turn of mind, he shifted from farm to mechanical work. He was superintendent two years on the Texas-Pacific, later master car builder on the M. K. & T.

STILL SEARCH FOR ROBBERS

Depot Arrest who Carried Revolver and Brass Knuckles Held for Chief Troyer

CITY CLERK ALSO LOST $120

Carried that Amount on His Own Person—Deaf and Dumb Man's Statue Given

The search for the desperadoes who beat V. N. Roderick, city clerk at Brainerd, to unconsciousness and then robbed the vault of $1,388.40 city money and Roderick of $120 cash, continues in Brainerd and scores of outside cities.

The man arrested by Deputy Sheriff Claus A. Theorin at the depot and whose pockets bulged with a loaded Colt's revolver and a pair of brass knuckles, is being held and Chief Troyer, of Duluth, thinks he may be implicated in a recent daring safe robbery. The deaf and dumb man over whom such a future was made, is apparently innocent. The hotel man at the City hotel vouches that the deaf and dumb person was asleep in his room at the time of the robbery.

It is a source of gratification to Brainerd to see the co-operation given by Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis police. At Minneapolis, says County Attorney G. S. Swanson, the police have under surveillance a suspect and Chief of Police Oscar Martinson will hold him for the Brainerd authorities.

The city clerk of Brainerd was bonded $1,000 as city clerk and $1,000 as municipal clerk.

The Minneapolis Journal tells the work done by Chief of Police Oscar Martinson in co-operating with the Brainerd authorities. Squads of Minneapolis police were sent to the outlying districts of Minneapolis and railroad junctions, passenger trains and coaches searched. The bandits were believed to have boarded a train from Brainerd to Minneapolis.

If the men escaped in box cars, the search will be a difficult one and Chief Martinson sent as many men as could be spared to do the work of searching.

NEW SUPPLY CAR

Dick Ahrens Proud of Car and its Many Conveniences Made According to Blue Print

A boy with his first long pants or a kid with his first red top boots or a man owning his first automobile has nothing on Dick Ahrens when he sits in his new supply car and contemplates all the conveniences accorded him in his conveyance, which by the way, is a rehabilitated mail car and so enjoys coach springs, something which the ordinary caboose is a stranger to.

In the supply car is carried a large supply of stock used by the station agents and section foremen and others along three divisions. In compact compartments are chimneys, lamps, electric light globes, lanterns, wicks, burners, matches, ax handles, pick handles, and the hundred and one things used by railway men along the line traversed by the car.

The oils are kept in tanks and are measured out with a patent oil measuring device. Matches are carried in a compartment lined with asbestos. The Northern Pacific now receives matches in boxes bearing an "N. P." monogram.

With his car Mr. Ahrens covers the Lake Superior, St. Paul and Minnesota divisions. On a recent trip from Duluth to Brainerd he was accompanied by Wm. Farley, of Duluth, foreman of the boiler shop of the railway there. He checked up stuff from engines picked up by section men.

FRANCE AROUSED BY PUBLIC MEN'S LIVESScandals Brought to Light by Recent Shooting.

Paris.—The Paris press is foreshadowing an approaching exposure in the private life of one of the most powerful statesmen in France which may cause a revolution in the matrimonial standard demanded of high officials of the government, hitherto elected to office regardless of the most flagrant violations of private morality.

The exposure in question, which awaits investigation by detectives in the United States, is directed point blank at the enforced resignation of President Poincaré and undoubtedly is purely political in that respect. But it is part of a widespread movement throughout the country which was started almost immediately after President Poincaré was installed in the Elysée with the wife he married immediately after he, as her lawyer, had obtained for her a divorce from her former husband, a cab driver.

That Mme. Poincaré was an Italian by birth and had been an actress on the vaudeville stage did not serve as a protection against her enemies. They have been able to strengthen their campaign against her by the fact that her husband has compelled the government to give her a place in society which the wives of other presidents of France did not have.

And out of the furious agitation over the murder of Editor Calmette of the Figaro by Mme. Caillaux, wife of the minister of finance, the movement for a moral standard in politics gathered many recruits. They are uniting to produce some decided action at the time of Mme. Caillaux's trial. The press calls attention to the fact that she is a divorcee, that the man she married had been divorced twice and that the defending lawyer, Labori, is the husband of a divorcee, the former wife of the famous musician, De Pachmann, whose divorce was obtained by Labori's legal efforts.

HELD UP BY A HAIRBRUSH.

Quick Witted Denver Lawyer Gives a Burglar a Scare.

Denver.—A burglar attempting to break into the home of Thomas J. Dixon, an attorney, was frightened away at the "point" of a hairbrush. Dixon detected the burglar cutting a screen on a window of his home. Seizing a silver mounted hairbrush, he pointed it at the man.

"Throw up your hands," commanded Dixon. The burglar saw the glint of the silver back and quickly held his hands above his head.

Dixon then called to his wife to telephone for the police. Before the officers arrived the burglar discovered Dixon's ruse. He scrambled over a high board fence and disappeared.

DYNAMITE KILLS A COW.

No, She Wasn't Blown Up—Bossy Ate the Explosive.

Middletown, N. Y. — Eating several sticks of dynamite did not agree with a cow on the farm of George Kilpatrick at Kerr's Creek in Delaware county, and the animal is dead. Several other cows which tasted of the explosive were only slightly affected.

The dynamite had been placed in sections of the pasture for use in blowing out holes for telephone poles. While the cow's owner thinks the company which placed the dynamite in the pasture should pay for the animal, the company contends death was not due directly to the explosive.

Christening the Baby.

A north of England parson thought it absurd that a working class woman should wish to christen her child "Laura Winifred Gwendolyn Genevieve."

"My good woman, what a ridiculously long and fanciful name!" he protested. "Why not choose something simpler—Sarah, for instance? That is my own wife's name."

"Ah, yes, Sarah's all very well for a parson's wife, but I hope my little girl will look a bit higher than that," answered the woman readily.

The astonished parson thereupon performed the ceremony without further comment.—London Telegraph.

Was Dr. Johnson Bashful?

On the eve of leaving London for Canada Mrs. Brooke, who wrote "The History of Emily Montague," the first novel written in Canada, gave a farewell party. Hannah More, Johnson and Boswell being of the company. Dr. Johnson was obliged to leave early and apparently departed after wishing his hostess health and happiness. Shortly after a servant whispered to Mrs. Brooke that a gentleman was waiting below to speak to her. Running downstairs, the fair novelist found the venerable lexicographer. "Madam," said he ponderously, "I sent for you downstairs that I might kiss you, which I did not choose to do before so much company."

Russian Vengeance.

The Russian revolutionaries have absolutely no mercy on those who betray them. It is well known that in the year 1903 a traitor caught at Odessa was bricked up alive in a cellar and left to perish.

Regnier, a French spy in the pay of the Russian police, for a long time eluded the vengeance of the revolutionaries. But they caught him at last and that just at the moment when he fancied himself safe. His body was found in his cabin on a ship which reached Antwerp. He had been suffocated by fumes of sulphureted hydrogen. How this was done was never discovered.

CALLS WORD "OBEY" A SIN.

Philadelphia.—"The marriage service usually used has outlived its usefulness and should be relegated to oblivion."

fuse to follow this fashion. To me marriage is too sacred an institution to permit any allotted promise.

"I have always believed in making the ceremony fit the occasion. In other words, I have a different service for each marriage. Long ceremonies are boring. Therefore I try to make mine as short as possible.

"As for the word 'obey,' I had only one girl who wanted to make such a crazy promise. In fact, she insisted on it. There was only one thing for me to do. I refused to marry her. She had to take the bridegroom to another minister.

"No woman obeys her husband. No man with common sense asks his wife to obey him. In fact, it is a greater disgrace to expect than to give such a thing. No man would respect another man for demanding it. Therefore I think it is positively wicked to use this word in the marriage contract. It is spiritually and morally wrong to encourage a woman to make a promise she knows in her heart she will not keep. She becomes a fool and a perjurer at the same time.

"I have been criticised for cutting out 'till death do us part.' It has been said that I advocated trial marriage. But how do I or any other minister know whether the couple will be flying to the divorce court in a year or two? We cannot look into the future.

"Why, then, should we try to force ourselves to believe that they will live happily ever after, when the divorce records, showing the large percentage of separations, stare us in the face? In such cases they may be sincere enough at the time—most of them are, for that matter—but the love and affection die out with time. To them the saying of 'till death do us part' is only a mockery."

Zoology and Flags.

Zoology figures very largely on the flags of different nations. On the British royal standard is the lion. It was Richard Coeur de Lion, by the way, who altered the device from leopards to lions on the king's standard. Both the lion and the eagle on that of Spain. Bulgaria has a lion and Mexico a bird quarrelling with a snake. Taken together with the animals that appear on nations' arms, the royal unicorn and Australian emu and kangaroo, a fairly comprehensive collection could be made from the various national emblems.

American Flag Pro-
claims Free Field
For AllBy Governor MARTIN H. GLYNN of
New York In Address on Flag Day

THE American flag stands for a system wherein Lincoln, the rail splitter, and Garfield, the towpath boy, lifted themselves into the executive chair of the White House. It proclaims a fair field for all; it promises special favors to none.

IT TELLS OF A LAND WHERE THE BALLOT IS MIGHTIER THAN THE SWORD; WHERE EDUCATION IS AS FREE AS SUNLIGHT; WHERE HANDS AND LIMBS ARE UN-

FETTERED; WHERE BRAINS ARE THE MASTERS OF DESTINIES; WHERE THE ACCIDENT OF BIRTH PAVES NO ROYAL ROAD TO POWER; WHERE EVERY MAN REAPS WHAT HE SOWS; WHERE PUBLIC THOUGHT HAS SUPPLANTED THE BULLET AS THE INSTRUMENT OF REVOLUTION; WHERE THERE IS A LEGAL REMEDY FOR EVERY WRONG; WHERE LABOR WEARS A DIGNITY, COMMANDS A CONSIDERATION AND EXERCISES A SWAY NOT SECONDARY TO CAPITAL.

It tells of a land where the WEAKEST FINDS PROTECTION, and the STRONGEST MUST BOW TO THE LAW that rules the weakest; a land, my friends, such as this world has never seen; a land which historians, contemporaneous with its birth, hailed as utopian and the dream of idle dreamers. But the dream has lived on.

Cost of Firing Naval Guns.

The guns used in the navy range from six inch to fourteen inch caliber of bore. The six inch gun carries a 100 pound shell, seven inch guns 165 pound shell, eight inch guns 250 pounds, ten inch guns 500 pounds, twelve inch guns 850 pounds, thirteen inch 1,100 pounds. To fire one of the big guns using the shells and the explosives that would be used in battle costs from $477 to $720 for each discharge, according to the size of the gun, but the cost in target practice is only about $250 each discharge, because they use cheap shells and no explosives. The big guns are used twice a year in target practice, the target for an eight inch gun at five mile range being 30 by 60 feet in size.

A Crop Equal to Fertilizer.

An Irish farmer was asked if he used any of the commercial fertilizers on his land.
"No, sorr," he replied. "To my notion there's nothing like the old barnyard kind."
"Nonsense, man," said the other. "The time is coming when a man can carry the fertilizer for an acre of land in one of his waistcoat pockets."
"Maybe he will, sorr," returned Pat. "An' he'll be able to carry the crop in the other pocket, I'm thinkin'!"—Boston Transcript.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away

Braierd women know how the aches and pains that often come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, are frequent indications of weak kidneys and should be checked in time. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. They attack kidney diseases by striking at the cause. Here's proof of their merit in a W. Braierd woman's words:

Mrs. R. Abear, W. Main St., W. Braierd, Minn., says: "One of our family was so bad with kidney complaint last winter that she had to miss two weeks from school. Her back ached and she was so sore and lame that she wasn't able to get around. We gave her Doan's Kidney Pills, and she got so much better that she was able to go back to school. Four years ago I suffered from hard, dull pains in my back, together with rheumatic twinges. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, that I got at H. P. Dunn's Drug Store and they relieved all the ailments."

DARING RESCUE OF CHILD.

Reading Laborer Carries Two-year-old
to Safety With Teeth.

Reading.—A two-year-old child, Mary Perlema, wandered from her home, near the old Seyfert furnace, to be discovered several hours later on a decaying bridge 100 feet above the Reading railway tracks. A strong breeze and the weakened bridge made her position extremely dangerous, and the only way to reach her quickly was by a rough climb up the precipitous side of a clinder bank.

Stephen Circella, a young Italian laborer, was the hero who rose to the occasion. While hundreds of neighbors watched he climbed the sharp bank of slag, painfully tearing his hands and legs, crawled out on the shaking bridge structure, seized the belt of the little girl's dress between his teeth and carried her thus back to safety and her anxious parents.

When Pepys Learned Multiplication.

An entrance examination in arithmetic would have floored at least one distinguished civil servant of the past. In 1662, when he had been for years surveyor general of the victualling office, Mr. Pepys notes in his diary: "To Mr. Cooper, mate of the Royal Charles, of whom I intend to learn mathematics, and do begin with him today. After an hour's being with him at arithmetic (my first attempt to learn the multiplication table), we parted till tomorrow."—London Chronicle.

Cost of Firing Naval Guns.

The guns used in the navy range from six inch to fourteen inch caliber of bore. The six inch gun carries a 100 pound shell, seven inch guns 165 pound shell, eight inch guns 250 pounds, ten inch guns 500 pounds, twelve inch guns 850 pounds, thirteen inch 1,100 pounds. To fire one of the big guns using the shells and the explosives that would be used in battle costs from $477 to $720 for each discharge, according to the size of the gun, but the cost in target practice is only about $250 each discharge, because they use cheap shells and no explosives. The big guns are used twice a year in target practice, the target for an eight inch gun at five mile range being 30 by 60 feet in size.

A Crop Equal to Fertilizer.

An Irish farmer was asked if he used any of the commercial fertilizers on his land. "No, sorr," he replied. "To my notion there's nothing like the old barnyard kind."

"Nonsense, man," said the other. "The time is coming when a man can carry the fertilizer for an acre of land in one of his waistcoat pockets."

"Maybe he will, sorr," returned Pat. "An' he'll be able to carry the crop in the other pocket, I'm thinkin'." —Boston Transcript.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away

Braierd women know how the aches and pains that often come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, are frequent indications of weak kidneys and should be checked in time. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. They attack kidney diseases by striking at the cause. Here's proof of their merit in a W. Braierd woman's words:

Mrs. R. Abear, W. Main St., W. Braierd, Minn., says: "One of our family was so bad with kidney complaint last winter that she had to miss two weeks from school. Her back ached and she was so sore and lame that she wasn't able to get around. We gave her Doan's Kidney Pills, and she got so much better that she was able to go back to school. Four years ago I suffered from hard, dull pains in my back, together with rheumatic twinges. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, that I got at H. P. Dunn's Drug Store and they relieved all the ailments."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Abear had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

DARING RESCUE OF CHILD.

Reading Laborer Carries Two-year-old to Safety With Teeth.

Reading.—A two-year-old child, Mary Perloria, wandered from her home, near the old Seyfert furnace, to be discovered several hours later on a decaying bridge 100 feet above the Reading railway tracks. A strong breeze and the weakened bridge made her position extremely dangerous, and the only way to reach her quickly was by a rough climb up the precipitous side of a cinder bank.

Stephen Circella, a young Italian laborer, was the hero who rose to the occasion. While hundreds of neighbors watched he climbed the sharp bank of slag, painfully tearing his hands and legs, crawled out on the shaking bridge structure, seized the belt of the little girl's dress between his teeth and carried her thus back to safety and her anxious parents.

When Pepys Learned Multiplication.

An entrance examination in arithmetic would have floored at least one distinguished civil servant of the past. In 1662, when he had been for years surveyor general of the victualling office, Mr. Pepys notes in his diary: "To Mr. Cooper, mate of the Royal Charles, of whom I intend to learn mathematics, and do begin with him today. After an hour's being with him at arithmetic (my first attempt to learn the multiplication table), we parted till tomorrow." —London Chronicle.
